

Species, people struggle
 amid political turmoil

By Thomas G. Clancy
 Phil Delacruz

As the Philippines moves toward a new constitution, the country's political and social landscape is in a state of flux. The new constitution, which is being drafted by a constitutional commission, is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The new constitution is expected to be a landmark document, as it will be the first time in the country's history that a new constitution has been drafted by a constituent assembly.

Superbody vs tax fraud proposed

SPECIAL Prosecutor Dennis Villa-Ignacio yesterday said the government has organized a multi-agency body to run after those involved in tax fraud.

The multi-agency body is to be composed of representatives from the finance department, the revenue and customs bureaus, and the offices of the Solicitor General and the Special Prosecutor.

Villa-Ignacio said the new body would be using the extensive powers of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Customs to go after the assets of individuals found to be involved in tax-related crimes.

"We will run after tax evaders, tax scam artists and corporations fronting for Pestino Chingkie," he said.

Chingkie is the head of the 11-member Chingkie group of companies accused of involvement in a massive tax credit scam that defrauded the government of billions of pesos in lost revenues. He is facing charges before the Sandiganbayan anti-graft court.

Villa-Ignacio said the Special Prosecutor's office has already asked the justice department to speed up the proceedings to secure the extradition of members of the family of Pestino Chingkie, including his wife Gloria, who had fled to British Columbia, Canada in 2003.

He said extradition proceedings were initiated against the Chingkies in 2003 but have yet to be effected.

He said this was why his office would be closely working with the justice department on the matter.

"[Gloria] Chingkie is a vital component in the transfer of Chingkie's assets from the country to Canada," Villa-Ignacio explained.

Citing a report in the March 26 to April 6, 2005 issue of the "Asian Pacific Post," a Canadian newspaper, Villa-Ignacio said "Chingkie and his wife Gloria Chingkie had fled to Richmond [in British Columbia] where they spent hundreds of thousands of dollars buying up real estate."

He said the report also showed that the Chingkies "were residing at Talmic Street in Richmond in a house worth C$500,000."

"The couple had also invested in several other properties on Westminster highway and on Alderbridgeway in Richmond, according to property records," Villa-Ignacio said. Nelson F. Flores

Joint 'jueteng' probe sought

TO AVOID "divergent" findings in the Senate and House investigations into the growing "jueteng" scandal, House Majority Floor Leader Prospero Nograles has called for the two chambers to meld their hearings on the illegal numbers game.

In a letter to Senate Majority Floor Leader Francis Pangilinan, Nograles said the Senate and House committees on games and amusement, and public order and security, should hold joint hearings to avoid "acrimony or divergences in the evaluation of findings."

"The conduct of joint hearings will not only serve the purpose of economy in the use of resources of both chambers in the pursuit of a legislative inquiry, but shall also prevent the duplication of efforts in securing testimonies, the overlapping of schedules in the presentation of witnesses and related evidence, and acrimony or divergences in the evaluation of findings," Nograles said.

"Moreover, joint hearings will substantially facilitate the clarification of issues by focusing the concerted attention of both chambers on the most important facets of the controversy, as well as make possible a collective inclusive evaluation of the veracity and credibility of testimonies and witnesses," he said.

Nograles said he and his colleagues in the House were "certain" the Senate shared their "commitment to the resolute and efficient conduct of legislative inquiries to the end that the highest interests of the nation are served."

"In so ensuring through joint hearings that the deliberations on the deposition of the issues raised in the jueteng controversy would be conducted with judicious dispatch, the House and the Senate can, thereafter, meaningfully pursue the passage of priority legislative measures that will resolve the nation's urgent fiscal difficulties and strengthen the government's economic recovery efforts," he said. *Philip C. Educators told: Don't spare the rod

By Akshin Papa

IS IT time to stop sparing the rod and spoiling the child?

A group of private school administrators yesterday said the lack of discipline in the classroom was what ailed the Philippine education system.

The Federation of Associations of Private School Administrators (FAPSA) said it was time to "bring back the batol (hardwood) rod to the classroom," adding that it had observed that aside from the problem of funding, the intrinsic problem of education lay in the behavior of students.

"To assure the lesson sticks, bring out the stick. Discipline is indispensable to the successful management of the lesson. Something has to be done to arrest the decline of education and restore it to its former glory," said Eleazar Kasilag, FAPSA head.

Kasilag said the bad attitude and behavior of students was a major setback [to learning].

"The mischievous ones are usually the slow learners and have the effect of slowing down the progress of the class. The curious intellect of diligent students is disturbed," he said.

But Kasilag said teachers were helpless because corporal punishment was taboo in the classroom. "How can the teacher deliver quality lessons in a class of 80 students if with a little shout [at the students] a suit from human rights advocates could be slapped on him?" he said.

Kasilag, however, said FAPSA was not advocating the use of extreme violence to instill discipline among students.

"FAPSA does not mean that bolles should fly or grenades explode or students' limbs threatened but just [wants] a guarantee of undisturbed instruction between teachers and students," Kasilag said.

He also said it was easy enough to blame lack of funds as the major problem of the educational system, "but there may be something in the rod that won't spoil the child."

Burma Army continues to target civilians—HRW

Human Rights Watch (HRW) has released a report detailing the continued targeting of civilians by the Burma Army. The report, titled "Burma's Army Continues to Target Civilians," was released on January 10, 2002. It details the ongoing human rights abuses in Burma, including the targeting of civilians by the military. The report states that the Burma Army has been responsible for the deaths of thousands of civilians and the displacement of millions more. It also details the widespread use of landmines and the destruction of villages and towns. The report calls for an end to the military's targeting of civilians and for the government to take steps to protect the rights of its citizens.

N. Korea boasts it has nuclear arms stockpile

North Korea has announced that it has successfully tested a nuclear weapon, claiming to have a stockpile of nuclear arms. The announcement was made by the North Korean government on January 8, 2002. It stated that the test was a success and that the country now has the capability to produce nuclear weapons. The announcement came after a period of tension between North Korea and the United States, which had been demanding that North Korea abandon its nuclear program. The United States has responded to the announcement by stating that it remains committed to its policy of denuclearization and that it will continue to work with the international community to address the issue.

Baguio air quality better say experts

By Donny Dela Cruz
Baguio, Ilocos Norte

MANILA (AP) — Baguio's air quality is better than what experts predicted, according to a report released by the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) on Thursday.

The report, titled "Air Quality Assessment of Baguio City," shows that the city's air quality is generally good, with only a few instances of moderate pollution. The DENR officials said that the city's air quality is better than what experts predicted because of the city's high altitude and the presence of the Cordillera Central mountain range.

The report also shows that the city's air quality is better than what experts predicted because of the city's high altitude and the presence of the Cordillera Central mountain range.

Gov presses panic button on shortage of doctors

By Kenneth S. Go
Manila

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine government is pressing the panic button on the shortage of doctors, with health officials warning that the country is facing a crisis in the medical profession.

The Department of Health (DOH) officials said that the country is facing a shortage of doctors, particularly in the rural areas. They said that the shortage of doctors is a result of the government's failure to attract and retain medical professionals.

Lobby group urges RP to sign trade pact with LS

DTI wants Japanese-South Korean tourists

By [Name] in Seoul

Seoul, April 9 — A lobby group has urged the Philippine government to sign a trade pact with South Korea, saying it would boost tourism and trade between the two countries. The group, the Philippine-South Korea Trade and Investment Promotion Council (PSKIPC), said it had met with officials from the Philippine Department of Trade and Industry (DTI) to discuss the issue. PSKIPC president [Name] said that South Korea is a major market for Philippine exports and that a trade pact would help to increase trade between the two countries. He also said that a trade pact would help to attract more South Korean tourists to the Philippines, which would be a major benefit for the Philippine tourism industry. PSKIPC is a non-profit organization that promotes trade and investment between the Philippines and South Korea. It has been active in lobbying the Philippine government to sign a trade pact with South Korea for many years.

The PSKIPC said it had met with DTI officials to discuss the issue of signing a trade pact with South Korea. The group said that it had presented a memorandum of understanding (MOU) to the DTI officials, which outlined the benefits of a trade pact between the two countries. The MOU said that a trade pact would help to increase trade between the Philippines and South Korea, which would be a major benefit for the Philippine economy. It also said that a trade pact would help to attract more South Korean tourists to the Philippines, which would be a major benefit for the Philippine tourism industry. The PSKIPC said that it was hopeful that the DTI officials would agree to sign a trade pact with South Korea.

First Gen to conduct IPO in Q4

FIRST-DIRECT Corp., the holding company of the First Family for its power generation business, is starting its initial public offering in the fourth quarter, according to sources familiar with the company's activities.

Also, the Securities and Exchange Commission yesterday approved an increase in First Gen's maximum offered rate corridor to $3.5 billion in out-put bills. The bonds will be offered starting "next" time.

Profunds from the bond offer will be used to acquire existing power generating companies being purchased by the government and existing jobs that may be at risk. Finance Minister Greshfield is optimistic.

Fall Creek has experienced its first snowfall in the weeks before this year and has capped its winter with a burst of blizzards. CLS's BDO Capital and APN Kim King as representatives will be sent.

It also has, 752 principals, had 144 First Grade teachers, 1000 teachers 20 and 40 years of age and 1000 principals and teachers of various other grades.

Figure 1 illustrates the experimental design. The process begins with a 'Stimulus' (represented by a box with a question mark), which leads to a 'Response' (also a box with a question mark). This is followed by 'Feedback' (a box with a question mark) and then the 'Outcome' (a box with a question mark). Arrows indicate the flow from Stimulus to Response, Response to Feedback, and Feedback to Outcome. A feedback loop arrow connects the Outcome back to the Stimulus. A separate box labeled 'Stimulus' at the bottom left has an arrow pointing to the 'Stimulus' box in the main sequence.

With a history spanning centuries, Time-honored cosmetics has made itself a permanent seat just on the shelves but also the safety of its products.

Time-honored cosmetics is a company that has been around for over 100 years.
It is a company that has been around for over 100 years. It is a company that has been around for over 100 years.

But even so, they
